Mazi Saheli Charitable Trust
let's build a better tomorrow

About Us

Mazi Saheli Charitable Trust (MSCT), headquartered in Mumbai, is a committed non-profit organization working towards sustainable and inclusive development. We strive to bridge the rural–urban divide by designing and delivering impactful initiatives that foster holistic community empowerment. We believe that sustainable and inclusive development is achieved through focused interventions in healthcare, education, livelihood enhancement, and environmental sustainability. By addressing these interconnected pillars, we aim to create resilient communities, expand opportunities, and improve the overall quality of life for underserved populations.

Community Development:

Mazi Saheli Charitable Trust (MSCT), headquartered in Mumbai, Fundamentally an organization dedicated to community development. At the heart, of everything we do is a commitment to building stronger, more self-reliant rural communities across Maharashrta - bridging the gap between urban opportunity and rural potential, and ensuring that every individual, family, and village has the resources, dignity, and agency to shape their own future.

Healthcare:

As part of our community development work, we take a holistic approach to healthcare expanding access to medical services, training and retaining healthcare professionals, raising health awareness, and fostering community participation. Our health camps, eye surgeries, menstrual health programmes, and breast screening initiative for early detection of cancer are all drivenby the belief that healthy communities are the foundation of lasting growth.

Education & Livelihood:

Education and livelihood are equally central to our community development mission. MSCT strengthens rural education by improving infrastructure, training teachers, and encouraging community engagement. Through financial literacy programmes, employability training, farmer support, and eco-tourism initiatives, we empower individuals and families to build economic independence - creating communities that do not just survive, but lead.

At MSCT, we believe change happens when we walk together. With the support of our partners, well-wishers, and communities, we continue to create meaningful impact and build a better tomorrow.

Founder's Message

Avinash Chauhan

Founder,
Mazi Saheli Charitable Trust

"Let's build a better tomorrow, together

"At MSCT, we believe that real change begins with empowerment, not charity. Our mission is to walk alongside communities-equipping them with knowledge, resources, and opportunities so they can shape their own future with dignity and confidence.

Development is not given, it is grown. Whether it's better health, quality education, sustainable livelihoods, or care for our environment - our effort are rooted in listening, learning, and working together.

We believe in partnership, not dependency. By building trust and encouraging participation, we create solutions that are local, lasting, and led by the people themselves.

This year, with the support of our partners, volunteers, and well-wishers, we crossed a significant milestone-impacting 32,000+ lives across communities.

Thank you for being a part. Together, let's continue to build a more inclusive, sustainable, and compassionate tomorrow."

Our Vision

Rural communities flourishing with resilience, dignity, and opportunity-where every individual, especially women, children, and marginalized groups, have equitable access to quality education, healthcare, sustainable livelihoods, and a healthy environment to lead a fulfilling and empowered life.

Our Mission

To empower rural communities by providing access to quality education, holistic healthcare, and resources that promote women's empowerment and economic independence. We design need-based programs, build local capacity, and collaborate with partners to create sustainable solutions that uplift lives and strengthen communities.

The Saheli Circle: What, Why, How

The Idea

A circle represents the earth, the cycle of life, and above all equality, equanimity, and unity. It is a space without hierarchy, where women hold hands to move forward together toward progress and a better world for generations to come.

At MSCT, Saheli means recognizing that women are the epicentre of family, household, and society-yet often unaware of their own strength. The Saheli Circle exists to change that: women supporting women, breaking the cycle of helplessness through closeness, comfort, and shared power.

Why

- Local problems demand local solutions
- Harnessing women's collective energy to drive egalitarian change
- Philosophy: start small, build confidence, grow big

How

- Identify local problems → prioritize
- Own them as "ours"
- Resolve using local resources
- Seek external support (training funding) only where truly needed

What This Achieves

- Independence through self-sufficiency
- Boosted self-confidence
- Preservation of natural resources and indigenous heritage
- Awareness of both rights and duties
- Prevention of rural migration and ecological preservation
- Long-term sustainability

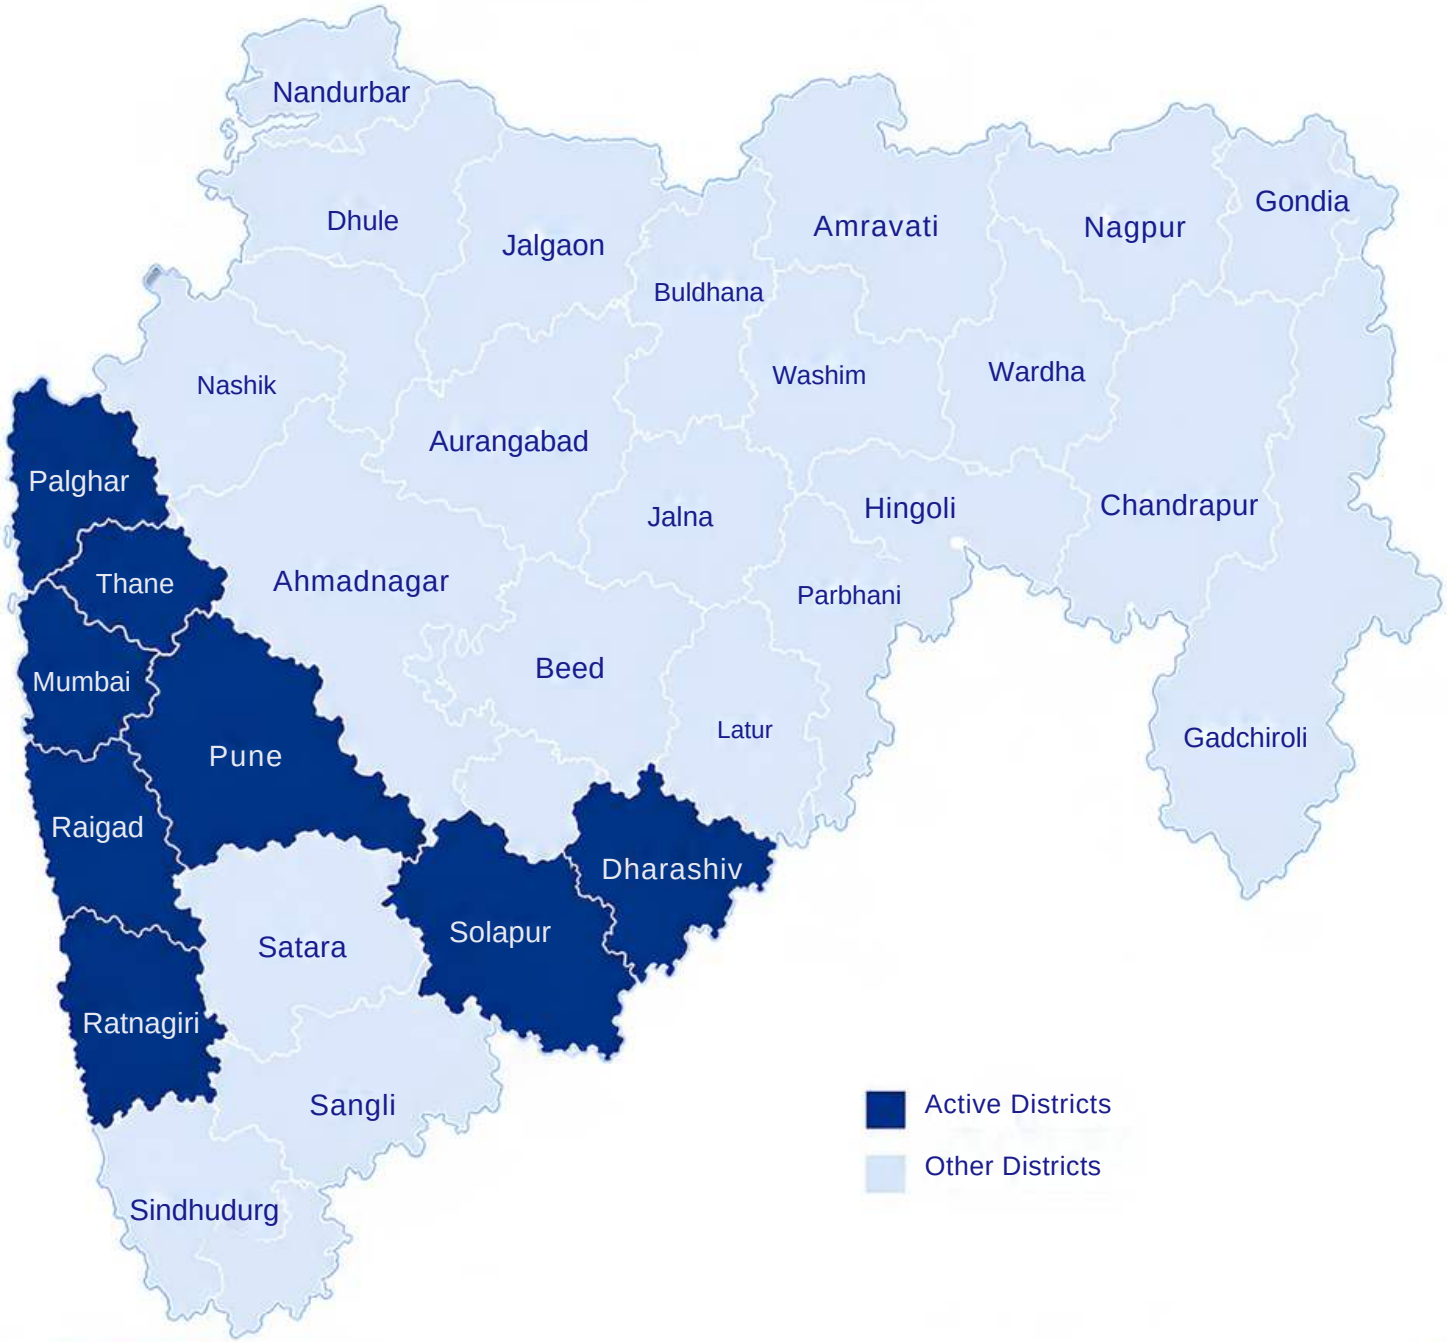

For the locals, of the locals, by the locals - powered by women.

New Initiative

We promote sustainable rural tourism through community-based experiences, strengthening local livelihoods and cultural engagement.

- Encouraging nature conservation and responsible tourism

Aakar Celebration

Aakar is Mazi Saheli Charitable Trust's annual flagship celebration — a gathering of community partners, beneficiaries, volunteers, board members, and well-wishers to reflect on our shared journey. This year's edition honoured stories of transformation: women discovering their strength, children finding their voice, farmers embracing innovation, and communities rising together. More than a celebration, Aakar is a reminder of our purpose and a promise to go further into the communities that need us most — celebrating not just what we've built, but who we're becoming.
